Have you ever considered going solar?

If so, now is the time because it's cheaper and easier than ever. Here's the proof: A new study just found that in 42 out of 50 of the largest U.S. cities, a typically-sized, $0-down home solar system costs less than the energy purchased from a residential customer's local utility.* Join more than 1,100 Sierra Club supporters in making the switch to clean energy.

With flexible financing through different Sungevity Energy Plans, you can get an efficient solar system without emptying your pockets. Plus you'll lock in your electricity rate for years to come! It sounds too good to be true, but it's not!

Now is the time to go solar.

REGIONAL COLLABORATION CONFERENCE

Strengthening Regional Collaboration to Fight Fracked Gas Pipelines and Infrastructure

by Martha Klein

Fighting the expansion of “natural” methane gas infrastructure in the northeastern United States was the topic December 5th and 6th when the Sierra Club Massachusetts Chapter hosted a regional meeting of Sierra Club groups and chapters.

The meeting initiated a strengthening regional collaboration within the Sierra Club; many chapters have already been working with other environmental groups, in particular 350.org, but haven't focused on cross-chapter collaborations. Now, this regional Sierra Club alliance enhances our ability and power to influence politicians, regulators, media and the public about the need to stop the fracked gas transport and export infrastructure expansion immediately, and invest in energy efficiencies and 100% renewable power sources instead.

Sierra Club members from Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania attended, as well as National Sierra Club staff from Washington DC and Denver, CO.

The conference also afforded the Connecticut Chapter the opportunity to meet with the researcher who has mapped out gas pipeline leaks in Boston. The chapter will hire the research firm to do the same in Hartford. The information on location of leaky pipelines has been instrumental in Massachusetts to proposing state and local legislation that would protect consumers from the cost and the public from the health threats of leaking gas. This model is one the Connecticut Chapter hopes to replicate.

Cross-chapter collaboration provides our chapter with the means to learn from and model other successful chapter initiatives.

by Martha Klein

A rally to call attention to the need to transition to 100% renewable energy for 100% of the people was hosted by the Sierra Club CT Chapter and allies on the steps of the State Capitol building in Hartford November 21, 2015.

Nearly 200 people gathered to hear a diverse roster of speakers on a number of issues related to climate disruption including:

Adverse health impacts

Warm Weather Portends Future

The weather for November 21st was unseasonably warm for a late fall day. Sun and blue sky clearly represented this hotter world to which we are becoming inured. During the rally, a red tailed hawk began to soar over our heads, remaining in view for much of the event, and following overhead later as the participants walked to a restaurant for a group meal.

The Red Tailed Hawk

Red Tailed Hawks are creatures of long range vision, who see what is there in the distance. I know we are following the right path in relentlessly calling attention to the climate disruption that is rapidly worsening, and that we must continue to show the way to a better future that is possible for all.

RALLY IN BOSTON: JOBS, JUSTICE AND CLIMATE

by Martha Klein

People converged on Boston from across New England for a massive rally to support “Jobs, Justice and Climate,” Saturday, December 12, 2015. Approximately 1,500 to 2,000 people attended the rally, and nearly that many chanted and marched as the group proceeded across the financial district and back up to the State House.

Your Connecticut Chapter leaders were present, along with our allies 350CT and a busload of CT residents. We marched with people of all ages and ethnicities. The speakers were from the communities most affected by xenophobia, inequality, climate disruption and a worsening labor and economic market. The speakers explicitly made the connection between a worsening climate to increasing inequality and war.

It was wonderful to see so many familiar and friendly faces at the rally and it was a reminder of how important collaborations are, and that we need to build even stronger connections with all people fighting for a livable planet and sustainable future. It was an energizing experience that we left invigorated to continue our conservation campaigns for the benefit of all.
