The Securities and Exchange Commission
Attn: Secretary Vanessa A. Countryman

Re: Comments Opposing Proposed Rescission of Rule 14a-8 (File No. S7-2026-32)

Dear Secretary Countryman,

Please accept the 1,114 comments submitted by Sierra Club members and supporters in response to the Securities and Exchange Commission's proposal to rescind Rule 14a-8 (File No. S7-2026-32). These submissions include comments from individuals who signed onto the form statement below, as well as 183 individually written comments from supporters who chose to share their own perspectives. The individually written comments reflect the views and experiences of their respective authors and should not be understood as statements of, or endorsements by, the Sierra Club.

Together, these comments reflect strong opposition among Sierra Club members and supporters to the proposed rollback of the shareholder proposal process and urge the Commission to preserve this important tool for investor participation and corporate accountability.

We are submitting these comments to ensure that the Commission hears directly from the people who would be affected by its proposed changes and considers their concerns before taking action.

Sincerely,
Sierra Club

Form Comment Submitted by Sierra Club Members and Supporters

Re: Don't Roll Back Rule 14-8A (File No. S7-2026-32)

Dear Secretary Countryman,

I am writing to formally oppose the Securities and Exchange Commission's proposal to rescind Rule 14-8A.

Shareholders' ability to submit and vote on shareholder proposals has been instrumental in enabling investors to protect their long-term financial interests by engaging portfolio companies on material matters.

For decades, Rule 14a-8 has provided a structured, consistent federal framework through which shareholders can raise concerns about risks that may affect a company's long-term financial performance, bring those concerns to the attention of both company leadership and fellow shareholders, and encourage corporate management to respond. This process supports informed shareholder participation, strengthens corporate accountability, and helps investors identify and address risks that might otherwise receive insufficient attention.

Furthermore, the proposed changes are part of a broader effort to restrict shareholder rights and silence investors seeking to hold companies accountable for issues that decades of research show can have significant financial implications for companies and their shareholders. By dismantling an established mechanism for shareholder oversight, the Commission is curtailing investors' ability to protect their financial interests in order to insulate companies from accountability, placing corporate interests ahead of the shareholders the Commission is charged with protecting. In doing so, the Commission risks undermining the fair, orderly, and efficient functioning of capital markets that it is statutorily mandated to uphold.

I respectfully urge the Commission to uphold its responsibility to protect investors and promote transparent, efficient markets by withdrawing the proposed rescission and preserving the shareholder proposal process.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Recently, the Securities and Exchange Commission proposed rescinding Rule 14a-8 entirely, which allows shareholders and retirement managers to raise questions about climate, Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG), and other risk-related issues. If that happens, one of the most important avenues for corporate accountability goes away! Anyone who's saving money -- for retirement, for a home, for an emergency fund -- needs good market regulation. Climate disclosures help investors and fund managers understand and manage climate-related risks, protecting long-term savings and investment returns.

Shareholders deserve to know what is going on with the companies that they have invested in. They need to be able to make wise financial and ethical decisions based on real information. It is critical for protecting retirement savings. Additionally, their voice can hold companies accountable. Corporate executives might not care what activists think of their actions but since shareholders have a stake in the finances,the company has no choice but to pay attention. This is a critical tool to make sure that companies remain ethical and sustainable. Please do not silence shareholders.

4. Steve Davidson

Alexandria, VA 22314

While it is true that some shareholder proposals are a bit, shall we say, out-to-lunch, it is important to preserve the right of shareholders to raise issues. Ensuring shareholder voice well beyond the perfunctory "Do you approve our accounting firm" type of vote. Maintaining shareholder voice strengthens our economy. It provides a means by which shareholders can ask the hard questions. Bottom line: Rule 14-8A ensures accountability by the Board. Don't gut it.

5. Jo Ann Lenahan

Pewee Valley, KY 40056

Do not roll back Rule 14-8A. This rule allows shareholders and retirement mangers to raise questions about climate, Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG), and other risk-related issues. If that happens, one of the most important avenues for corporate accountability goes away. Corporations need to be held accountable for their actions regarding the destruction of our environment.

6. Jill Martel

Dedham, ME 04429

As a lifelong investor, I understand and support good market regulation around the issues of managing climate-related risks. Shareholders like me should continue to be able to raise questions about climate, environmental, social and other issues related to risk.

7. Joy Reich

Please keep Rule 14-8 to protect investors rights and preserve the shareholder proposal process and strengthen corporate accountability. This is important to us.

8. Larry Lambeth

Climate Change is very real and must be considered more important than financial benefits. Do not rescind Rule 14a-8 : which allows shareholders and retirement managers to raise questions about climate, Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG), and other risk-related issues.

9. Deb Legel

Evans, CO 80620

As a shareholder I want the right to protect my long term financial interests by raising concerns, bringing identified risks and strengthen corporate accountability. Why would you want to do away with Rule 14a-8 except to allow raping, pillaging, and plundering to go unchecked. Shame on you!

10. Ben Vitale

South Orange, NJ 07079

There is nothing more American than to express our political beliefs. Money untethered from ethical decision making is immoral. It's also key to sound long-term financial management. Hiding responsibility and capital behind layers of ownership, e.g. mutual funds, risks weakening these moral responsibilities on money. It is important that the privileges of owners be protected, and that investors can express themselves to users of their capital. Regulators have demonstrated that do not always act in the best long-term interests of the people, and of the environment. Companies themselves ask regulators to take a light touch, or stay hands off, because the companies say they will act responsibly. Thus the owners of companies -- the shareholders -- must be permitted to raise these issues via Rule 14a-8.

11. Sharon Teagarden

Boulder City, NV 89005

The only reason you are trying to rescind shareholders and retirement managers rights to ask questions and hold companies accountable, is because you do not want to face the truth about climate change. Also, because it will affect you profit margin. Instead of thinking about what is best for the entire world, and all the people and wildlife that live on this planet, your GREED gets in the way every time. STOP being like TRUMP and think of other instead of yourselves. SHAME ON YOU AND YOUR DISGRACEFUL WAY OF DOING BUSINESS.

12. Sam Butler

Los Angeles, CA 90045

It is vital that you keep Rule 14-8A as it is. This rule is critically important for corporate accountability and to give investors the tools they need to manage significant risks, especially related to climate risk.

13. Robert Voigt

East Lansing, MI 48823

I oppose your proposal to rescind Rule 14a-8. A vital rule which allows shareholders and retirement managers to raise questions about climate, Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG), and other risk-related issues. This proposal hints whom you're in bed with-- corporate profiteers who would silence us and capitalize on our natural resources. I say: No Roll Back!

14. Bernard Berauer

I am saving for my grandchildren's college educations, and am a strong supporter of investor democracy. Their futures will be greatly impacted by the effects of climate change, and I do not want my money going into climate-wrecking investments. It is my right to know what's going on with my savings, and therefore I urge you to NOT to rescind Rule 14a-8. Thank you.

18. Judith Mecklenburger LCSW

As serious investors, my husband and I I research the companies I will support, e.g. their stability, future prospects, management, impact on their communities and the world, etc. So does my financial advisor and the worldwide company where he works. Rule 14-A-8 is absolutely critical to us and to the millions of people who rely on investments. Also, this rule benefits the companies because it encourages the behavior -- like good management -- that makes them attractive to investors like us. PLEASE keep this rule in place!

19. Lesley Schott

I cannot believe I even have to take time out of my day to write about this. It is unfathomable that our nation does not prioritize natural lands and climate related issues; NOTHING else matters if our country is uninhabitable. Rescinding a rule which allows shareholders and retirement managers to raise questions about climate, Environmental, Social, and Governance related issues is also asinine in the extreme; THEY ARE THE STAKEHOLDERS WHO ARE ENTITLED TO KNOW DETAILS AND ASK QUESTIONS. This sort of Trump era nonsense has gone on long enough. For too long have the politicians of this nation done next to nothing to protect the people and our nation's natural lands; it is unethical, immoral, unpatriotic and un-American.

Do not rescind Rule 14a-8 any/all share holders must be allowed to vote/ raise questions if they hold shares in any business ! A even better idea would be no matter how many shares one holds they are only allowed one vote in total. That way one share holder with many shares cannot override an idea many shareholders support!

Leave these decisions to experts not to greedy people that know nothing about them except how much money they could make! Money won?t do you any good when there?s no fresh air, water or earth!

168. Diane Jones

Hillsborough, NJ 08844

lately big business gets their way because they bribe their way. GREAT BIG DONATIONS. it's time that the American People stay safe from them. that is what Congress and the Pres. ARE SUPPOSED TO BE DOING PROTECTING ALL OF US. they seem to forget it when they see green come their way.

169. Melany McClurg

Bandera, TX 78003

Just another way for the government to ruin our environment and want to make sure the public has no recouse to protect ourselves.

170. Larry Lewis

Apopka, FL 32703

I doubt that my message will do much good as America is run by billionaires and their bought legislators and regulators who do whatever they want. As a citizen this SUCKS but it is all I can expect.
