Solar Bill of Rights

SB 249 allows homeowners to install solar panels on their own property without undue interference from homeowners associations.

Jobs

According to a study by the Institute for Local Self-Reliance, the Missouri solar industry created more than 3,700 jobs and added $415 Million to Missouri's economy in 2014. Our elected officials should support this dynamic job creating industry.

Freedom

Homeowners who wish to invest in creating their own energy on their own property deserve the right to do so without undue interference.

Environmental Stewardship

Over 80% of Missouri energy comes from coal fired power plants. When homes and businesses use on-site, renewable solar energy, this decreases the need for coal-based energy. Less coal being burned means less SO₂, less small particulate pollution and less childhood asthma. It means less coal ash waste and less heavy metals contaminating our drinking water. It means less carbon pollution which decreases Missouri's contribution to global climate change. In short, this means a healthier Missouri.

SB 249 was filed by Senator Burlison.
