

Georgia's

ENERGY FUTURE

2022

ENGAGEMENT MENU — INDIVIDUALS, FAMILIES, AND FRIENDS

In 2022, the Georgia Public Service Commission (PSC) requires Georgia Power to submit a proposal called an Integrated Resource Plan (IRP for short) for approval. The IRP lays out a roadmap for energy generation for the next 20 years and is a great opportunity to advocate for clean energy!

Entrees

Important actions to help Georgia win clean energy in 2022!

Join an event or public rally.

- Attend a protest or rally.
- Participate in a clean energy town hall.
- Organize your own rally or public event in your community.
- Bookmark the Georgia Sierra Club Calendar for dates and info.

Witness, comment, and take action at Public Service Commission hearings.

- Make public comments in support of transition to clean, affordable energy.
- Send a letter calling for progress on climate and clean energy.

Contact Neil Sardana at neil.sardana@sierraclub.org if interested in getting involved.

Appetizers

Short, simple, and easy ways to get involved.

Take action from home.

- Learn about the energy planning process by reading our explainer blog.
- Sign and share the clean energy petition.
- Follow the Sierra Club Georgia Chapter on Twitter, Instagram, and Facebook to get updates and share!
- Join our phone and text banking events.
- Write an op-ed or letter to the editor.

Desserts

More time-intensive, but the most impactful way to get involved.

Bring your community to the table.

- Tell your friends and family to get involved!
- Connect us with leaders in your community to take action.
- Help us find and amplify the voices of impacted community members to tell their stories.

