California Wildflowers and Climate Change

Internationally acclaimed conservation photographers Rob Badger and Nita Winter take you behind the scenes of their 27-year journey photographing wildflowers and superblooms throughout California and the West.

In their new, 12-time award winning coffee table book, "Beauty and the Beast: California Wildflowers and Climate Change," art and science are seamlessly woven into a beautiful work that celebrates California's amazing plant diversity to inspire hope and action.

Because many people don't know that wildflowers are especially vulnerable to climate change and habitat loss, the photographers and the book's 16 diverse authors have dedicated their life's work to protecting them and/or addressing climate change. With this project, they hope to inspire others to do the same.
