Bird Watching

is a free hobby you can enjoy everywhere from inside your home looking out to outdoor activities around the World. Different bird species are attracted to different areas for different reasons all based on how they evolved to meet their needs for food, shelter, and reproduction. Some birds live nearby year-round and others pass through on their way elsewhere. Global Warming is reducing some populations as birds are unable to adapt fast enough. You can attract birds to your yard with food, water and shelter. Be a BFF, plant sunflowers, berries, and other live food sources. And be sure to clean bird baths, feeders, and bird houses to avoid spreading disease.
