On Wednesday, January 5, 2022, Rep. Andrés Cano, ranking member of the House Natural Resources, Energy, and Water Committee, joined 31 groups and 12 other elected officials in releasing the 2022 Environmental Priorities for the Arizona Legislature and Governor. The priorities focus on needed actions on climate change, water, democracy, environmental justice, and land protection and restoration, among other issues.

“These issues may not be on the agenda for the majority at the legislature or the governor right now, but they should be and we are committed to making sure climate, environmental justice, sustainable water policies, land protections, and strengthening our democracy are not ignored,” said Sandy Bahr, chapter director for Sierra Club's Grand Canyon Chapter.

You can read the priorities and the updated list of signers here.

On Monday, January 10th, the 2022 Legislative Session will kick off with the State of the State Address by Governor Ducey. He and the Arizona Legislature say they are going to focus on water but whether that will result in more sustainable water policies remains to be seen. There will be anti-democracy measures and it sounds like there will also be bills to promote more xenophobia and racism related to the border wall. As noted above, we will be working hard to promote a positive agenda for Arizona.

In next week's legislative update, we will include information on specific bills, request to speak, and more. Unfortunately, it looks like the Legislature is not planning to offer remote testimony this year, so you will likely have to attend in person to speak, but you can still register your opposition to bills remotely via the Request to Speak System. It is most effective to do so when bills get scheduled for a committee hearing.

Thanks for all that you do. I look forward to working with you this legislative session.

All the best,

Sandy Bahr
