Mass. Legislature passes historic energy bill, National Drive Electric Week

The Massachusetts Legislature has passed a historic energy bill, MassPowerForward, which includes关键 provisions to reduce carbon emissions, increase renewable energy, and improve energy efficiency. The bill, which passed with bipartisan support, is set to be signed into law by Governor Charlie Baker. The bill includes provisions to phase out fossil-fuel pipelines, expand low-income community solar, and require gas companies to identify and repair gas leaks. The bill also requires the state to study the potential for offshore wind and Cape Wind applied for its first federal lease.
