Gary Pichon Wilderness Award
Andrew Fulks

There is arguably no one who has done more to map and blaze new trails in the Inner Coast Range than Andrew Fulks. For over 20 years he has spent countless hours exploring and assembling an amazing collection of dozens of detailed trail maps with geo-coordinates and photos at www.YoloHiker.org. It remains the definitive source of hiking and trail information for Yolo, Napa, and Lake counties today.

Andrew was also a co-founder of Tuleyome in 2002, which pushed for the designation of the Berryessa Snow Mountain National Monument in 2015. Andrew remained President of the organization for 15 years until recently. While he still remains a Board member, this allows more time for him to devote to his first calling - trail mapping and construction and rebuilding efforts following several years of devastating fires in the region.

In his day job Andrew is the Assistant Director of the UC Davis Arboretum and Gardens and Director of the Putah Creek Preserve at UC Davis. Andrew is also long term member of Yolo County Parks Commission and a member representing UC Davis of the Lower Putah Creek Coordinating Committee.
