It’s been a great summer, with mostly blue skies, abundant wildflowers and not too many thunderstorms. We still have six SPS trips scheduled for September and Corinne Livingston’s SPS List Finish celebration on October 16th on Mt Gould with a party afterwards in Independence. Contact the trip leaders, Tina Bowman and John Cheslick, if you would like to attend. In addition, Dan Richter and Pat McKusky will hold their second AMP (Advanced Mountaineering Program) from September 29-October 6.

One of the recent highlights of the summer was the 10th Sierra Challenge, held Friday August 6th through Sunday August 15th. For the 2010 event, a new list of 10 peaks was selected, but none from the SPS list. This didn’t deter a number of SPSers from participating – including Elena Sherman, Scott Sullivan, Matt Hengst, Paul Garry, Laura Molnar and Ron Hudson. Ron Hudson bettered all his previous efforts by climbing 7 straight peaks in 7 days. Only 5 individuals managed to climb all 10 peaks in 10 days, and one of them was Laura ‘Moose’ Molnar, a former WTC student from WLA. She became the first and only woman to achieve this feat – a fantastic achievement considering the overall tally was 150 miles and 55,000’ gain. Congratulations, Laura!

On a recent Sierra backpack trip, we got to talking about recruiting new members. Whenever there are ‘new folks’ on a SPS trip, I find myself asking them how far away they are from becoming ‘eligible’ to join SPS. This often becomes a lengthy discussion, sorting out what peaks were climbed with whom, and whether they will ‘count’ towards SPS membership. This can be frustrating for recent WTC graduates, for example, who find out that peaks they climbed with WTC don’t count. Someone raised the question: why do the peaks have to be climbed exclusively with SPS to count towards membership, why not allow SPS-listed peaks climbed with other Sierra Club entities such as WTC, PCS, Wilderness Adventures, Mule Pack section etc?

We discussed this at our last Management Committee meeting and a motion to bring this issue to a vote by the membership was unanimously approved. It would involve a change to the Bylaws, Section 2, 1.4 which currently states: “Climb any six mountains on the Peaks List maintained by the Section. At least two of these peaks shall be climbed on trips scheduled by the Section”. We will propose that this be amended to read: “Climb any six mountains on the Peaks List maintained by the Section. At least two of these peaks shall be climbed on trips scheduled by a Sierra Club entity.”

It is worth noting that other sections, such as DPS, have no such stipulation to climb a certain number of peaks on DPS-led trips in order to join the section. By having such a strict requirement in SPS, I feel that we are limiting our opportunities to recruit new members, particularly those coming out of WTC. Furthermore, the strict limits on participants due to small permit size has made it more difficult to get on SPS trips than when the Bylaws were originally written. I invite your comments and suggestions!

For those of you who remember the story about Conrad Anker finding the body of George Mallory on Everest in 1999 - 75 years after he perished on the mountain - you can now watch a full-length documentary “Wildest Dream” produced by National Geographic at select local theatres. It’s promised to be a worthwhile show illustrating the life of George Mallory, the pioneering adventurer who in 1924 dared to reach into the world’s last great untouched wilderness.

The next MC meeting will most likely be held in November. All are welcome! Please contact me with any comments or suggestions you might have.

The Sierra Sampler List

Listed, by region, are the 100 peaks that comprise the Sierra Sampler. While no mountain in the Sierra can be climbed without time, effort, and risk, these peaks represent a sub-set of the full SPS List that are relatively easy to get to, pose less danger than others on the List, are fun to climb and/or hold other qualities, and are drawn from the main areas of the range. The Sampler, which has been approved by the SPS Management Committee, thus provides a good introduction to the Sierra for climbers of varying degrees of experience and ability. Enjoy! The Sierra Sampler List will be published in the next Echo. Meantime, follow this link!

A motion was proposed and seconded by SPS Management Committee to propose a change to Bylaw 1.4 (Membership). Currently, in order to become a regular member, an applicant must climb 6 Sierra peaks, with 2 of those peaks being on SPS-led trips. The change proposed would be to allow the 2 Sierra peaks to be on a trip led by any Sierra Club entity (such as WTC, PCS, WA, Mule Pack Section, etc).

New Movie of Interest

George Mallory was obsessed with becoming the first person to conquer the untouched Mount Everest. He was last seen 800 feet below the summit in 1924, before the clouds rolled in and he disappeared into legend. His death stunned the world.

75 years later, climber Conrad Anker’s life became intertwined with Mallory’s after finding his frozen body with all his belongings intact. The only thing missing was a photograph of his wife, Ruth, which Mallory had promised to place on the summit. Haunted by Mallory’s story, Conrad Anker returns to Everest with British climbing prodigy Leo Houlding to unravel the mysteries surrounding his disappearance.

This theatrical feature, directed by Anthony Geffen, was released in cinemas and giant screen theatres across the US by National Geographic Entertainment in August 2010.

The Sierra Peaks Section maintains a website at http://angeles.sierraclub.org/sps.
George served in the U.S. Navy during WWII and moved to Southern California in 1951. He was employed in the Aerospace industry for 35 years. He greatly enjoyed his activities with the Sierra Club and climbing in the Sierras. He was a member of Saint Mel Paris for several decades.

“George was a long-time HPSer, DP Serg, and SP Serg & completed SPS and DPS Lists. Sorry to hear about his passing. One of my first SPS trips was with him, he was well versed in techniques, and a considerate leader. Goodbye George”

David Underwood

“George and I started going on SPS trips in the 1960’s and as I recall we both took part in the Basic Mountaineering Classes. I earned my SPS emblem in 1968 and George in 1971. I do remember George was a strong competent member which I would have no problem having him as a rope-mate. Sorry to hear of his passing.”

Hal Browder
1. Chair’s report – Kathy reported that:
   - A letter was received from the Chairman/CEO of Sports Chalet offering a meeting room free of charge to any Sierra Club entity.
   - A letter was received from Doris Cerna, Angeles Chapter Treasurer, offering audit help on any treasurer’s reports.
   - New member Iain Stobie should be acknowledged in the next Echo and on the SPS webpage.
   - The SPS Banquet is scheduled for Jan 29, 2011 at Taix Restaurant. Discussion of possible speakers included Gerry Roach, author of several books, including the ‘Colorado Fourteeners’. He lives in Colorado, but is an active member of the DPS and reputedly a good speaker.

3. Sierra Echo Report – the next Echo deadline is August 23rd.

4. Outings Report – Barbee and Larry are pleased with the recent P&P change allowing quick turn around approval for SPS trips.

5. Mountain Records Report – Harry Langenbacher provided an updated register report to go online and in the next Echo.

6. Archivist Report – Dan Richter reported that Historian Bob Cates is in the process of scanning archival material to make it available online. Interns are needed to help organize material at UCLA.

7. New Business
   - A motion was proposed and seconded to propose a change to Bylaw 1.4 (Membership). Currently, in order to become a regular member, an applicant must climb 6 Sierra peaks, with 2 of those peaks being on SPS-led trips. The change proposed would be to allow the 2 Sierra peaks to be on a trip led by any Sierra Club entity (such as WTC, PCS, WA, Mule Pack Section, etc).
   - Barbee Tidball provided a Word document detailing the SPS banquet history from 1957 to 2003. A volunteer is needed to update the history to reflect 2003 to 2010.
   - Greg Mason announced that on January 11, 2011 he will talk to an Orange County Group about the SPS. He plans to prepare a video and/or slide presentation. Any interested volunteers in helping Greg put this together should contact him at outreach@sierrapeaks.org and offer their services.

8. Old Business
   - Greg Mason demonstrated the SPS Committee Google site ‘sierrapeaks.org’. There are many things that it can be used for besides email lists – including leader lists, discussion groups, blogs, storing of electronic documents and member database, branded email (ie xxx@sierrapeaks.org), a calendar, etc. This is a means to create a nice web presence for future Management Committees and others to access current information.

Meeting was adjourned at 9:00 pm.

Club will offer outdoor leadership training Oct. 2

Interested in becoming an outings leader for the Club?

Angeles Chapter is home to one of the largest outings programs on the planet – thousands of trips ranging from beach barbecues to mountaineering expeditions.

You can take the first step toward becoming a leader by attending a class offered by the chapter Leadership Training Committee on Saturday, Oct. 2, at the Costa Mesa Neighborhood Community Center.

The class covers all the basics of leadership. Experienced leaders will tell you how to plan a trip, prevent problems on the trail and make sure that everyone – including you – has a great time. They’ll also explain good conservation and safety practices. And they’ll give you tips for getting your “O” rating quickly and then, if you choose, pursuing more advanced ratings.

The all-day class costs $25. The application is online at http://angeles.sierraclub.org/ltc.

Mail the application and check, payable to Sierra Club, to Steve Botan, LTC Registrar, 18816 Thornwood Circle, Huntington Beach 92646. You also can reach Botan by phone (714-321-1296) or e-mail (ltcregistrar@hundredpeaks.org).

Applications and checks are due Sept. 18.

Scholarships are available for those with financial need. Apply to LTC Chair Tina Bowman (tina@bowmandesigngroup.com).

I would like to get reports on the condition of summit registers and overfilled or missing summit registers/containers/pencils for any SPS (Sierra Peaks Section) listed summit, or other major summits in the Sierras. I have lots of various register books, and a few ammo boxes, and a couple of tin cans. Let me know if you need any of these supplies to help take care of the peaks on this list. There have been a few additions and deletions to this list since last year, but we still have register needs on almost a fifth of the peaks. Before you climb a Sierra Peak go to website http://summitregister.org/ for additional summit needs. After you climb a Sierra Peak, please send in a report http://climber.org/contact/SummitRegisters on the condition of the summit register. I will keep track of them. I like “all OK” reports, too!

Climbing partner Warren Shelton approached me with a plan to climb the east face of University Peak by a new route and traverse over the summit and descend down the north side to join the Kearsarge Pass trail near Gilbert Lake. I joined Warren and Timo Piunen to attempt the climb. We drove up from Los Angeles to Onion Valley where we slept in the parking lot for the night. At first light we brewed up and loaded our day packs. We went to the east end of the campground and started up the Robinson Lake trail the 2.5 miles to the lake. We passed east side of the lake and headed on up the canyon toward University Pass. At about the 11,500’ level where we left the pass route and ascended westerly a scree and talus slope to about 12,5000’ elevation. At this point, we started to ascend the ridge which led directly toward the summit blocks. The ascent now involved picking our way through granite blocks and ledges in a upward direction that was parallel to the southeast ridge coming off the peak. Nearing the summit blocks we climbed up clean granite ledges aiming up toward the summit. There was some exposure which I would classify as 3rd class and the ledges were very clean. This brought us just north of the large summit blocks. A short jam crack was ascended to gain the top to the northeast ridge which was followed to the summit. We found the summit register and signed in. There were two registers, one an American Alpine Club metal tube and the other a more traditional can. I had only seen an AAC register one other time which had been placed on the summit of Mt. Winchell. Some great familiar names were noted as we scanned the register. We had lunch and played our usual peak naming game and the surrounding view was spectacular. We now contemplated our descent route.

We left the summit and followed the northeast ridge on the west side of the northeast ridge passing just above the ever present snow field to a small notch. Past the notch we then headed down to a point where a long descending snow field could be accessed. We descended carefully down to Bench Lake. [note: no ice ax or rope] We descended on down to Matlock Lake to pick up the trail that led to the main trail to Onion Valley. We had traversed the peak in one of our more enjoyable mountain adventures. For those interested I would highly recommend this climb.
The prevailing ethos in mountaineering is to travel light, minimizing gear so you can hike far.

But a hardy band of rebels insists there is a better way. We do not travel with the comforts of home. No, we travel with the comforts of a well-stocked palace.

Ah, decadence.

On Saturday, Aug. 7, nine of us set out from Saddlebag Lake for Decadent Wilderness Weekend VIII, the Gourmet Backpack. We trudged three miles through the howling wilderness to a campsite overlooking Greenstone Lake.
North Peak dominates the skyline from Greenstone. It was the trip’s secondary objective, second only to eating amazingly well. I had scheduled the peak climb for Sunday but moved it up to Saturday after reading weather forecasts warning of thunderstorms Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning.

I figured with a little speed we could summit and be in our tents before the Saturday storm hit. I was half-right.

This being the Gourmet Backpack, the climb got off to a leisurely start at 11:30 a.m. I made a beeline for the east ridge on route to the class 3 Southeast Face. This was a mistake. My route took us across three or four boulder-filled gullies and then through an obstacle course of talus and brush. I could have saved a half-hour by taking a trail around the east ridge, then climbing the slabs on its north side.

By 12:30 p.m., thunderheads were building. By 1:15 p.m., when we were directly below the cliff that marks the East Face, we could feel the air changing. We retreated to camp.

In a break with custom, we enjoyed early pre-appetizers. Kay Fransson whipped up an appetizer of baby red potatoes, topped with cream cheese, salmon and fresh dill. Tonyce Bates produced two beverages: a wonderfully refreshing watermelon limeade and a sweet cantaloupe-wine smoothie.
We had only a half-hour to enjoy these pleasures before the storm hit. We spent the next 90 minutes in our tents, waiting out hail, rain and thunder.

As the sky cleared we began preparations for an epicurean night. Co-leader Lisa Buckley spread a linen tablecloth on the ground, adding linen napkins, plastic plates that looked like fine china and plastic knives and forks that looked like aluminum flatware.

I added the customary brass candlesticks and candles and carefully placed the customary four inflatable pink flamingoes at each corner. The table was set.

First came an abundance of appetizers. Co-leader Georgette Rieck made mushroom quesadillas with herbs and four kinds of cheese. Pamela Rowe offered cucumbers, marinated in organic cider vinegar with mint and dill. Tonyce, aided by her able assistant and husband Phil, outdid herself with roasted red pepper soup and two baguette appetizers: one with lavender goat cheese and raspberry chutney, the other with lavender goat cheese, smoked salmon, capers and dill.

And Lisa prepared escargot in classic style, sautéing the monopods in garlic and butter, then stuffing them in shells that she somehow brought to camp intact.

Georgette’s entrée was crab cakes with a spicy remoulade. Lisa borrowed from classic Swiss Alps cuisine, presenting a raclette of potatoes with cheese, pickles and baby corn. And I managed to bring together all three Official Ingredients of Decadent Wilderness Weekend VIII – garlic, butter and crab – with clams, milk, sherry and parsley, served on a bed of couscous.

We washed this all down with three different varieties of red wine, tastefully repackaged in Nalgene and Platypus bottles.

For dessert, Tonyce made a chocolate layer cake with a very rich chocolate frosting. Lisa made raspberry tartlettes, highlighted with a dash of the raspberry liqueur, Chambord.

Afterward came one of those perfect Sierra evenings as a vivid red sunset gave way to stars. In the night several claimed to hear a meteor breaking up overhead.
In the morning Gwen Sharp served her banana bread, made from six bananas picked from Virgil Talbott’s garden. I made Hangtown Fry, a rich concoction of bacon, oysters and eggs that has become a Gourmet Backpack staple. And Lisa made some incredible macadamia pancakes topped with coconut syrup.

At Gwen’s urging, we returned via the east shore of Saddlebag Lake, a longer and far more scenic route than the west shore trail we had taken in. She guided us to an indescribable riot of wildflowers beside a small stream. We spent a half-hour luxuriating in the colors before finally, reluctantly going to our cars.

By this time it had been three interminable hours since we had eaten great food. There was only one thing to do. Last stop: the famous Mobil Station in Lee Vining. The lobster taquitos were wonderful, thank you.
