peaks in the Sierra that are not on the list.

Adding this new Sierra Peaks Explorers Emblem will require a change to the Bylaws and will be on the ballot mailed out in December along with the candidates for next year’s SPS Management Committee. Please try to vote! Other new ideas that the Committee is exploring are to produce SPS bandanas with different designs and colors as well as designing a plaque or paper-weight for SPS list finishers.

Hold the date! The 2012 SPS Banquet will be held on Sunday, January 29th at the Proud Bird Restaurant. The restaurant is centrally located near LAX, close to major freeways, and offers free parking. We are delighted to announce that our speaker will be Bob Burd, organizer of the annual Sierra Challenge, and who last year completed dayhiking the SPS list on Table Mountain (a mere 40-mile jaunt).

Fall is upon us and the recent cold snap brought snow to the local mountains and to the Sierra. Some of us are already drawing up our ‘wish lists’ of peaks to climb next year. Please submit your trip ideas for Spring and Summer to the Outings Leaders, Barbee and Larry Tidball by mid-February in order for them to be published in the next Echo. Once trips have been given the appropriate approvals, they can also be posted directly onto the SPS website at any time. This includes provisional lead trips.

Many thanks to our hardworking Management Committee for 2011: Henry Arnebold, Greg Mason, Alexander Smirnoff and Eric Scheidemantle. In addition I’d like to give a special acknowledgement and thanks to a number of others who donate their time to complete essential tasks for the Section: Sara Danta (Echo editor), Barbee and Larry Tidball (Outings), Ron Hudson (Webmaster), Dan Richter (Archives), Patty Kline (Programs), and Beth Epstein (Mailer).

Best wishes for the holidays, Kathy

We had no less than four SPS List Finishers this year. A quadruple SPS List Finish celebration for took place on October 1st on the summit of San Joaquin Mtn with a party afterwards at John Hooper’s place in Mammoth (see article by Daryn Dodge in this issue). Congratulations to all of you!

One very sad trend over the past couple of years has been the disappearance of some of our most treasured peak registers, such as those on the summits of Black Kaweah, Norman Clyde and Thunderbolt. This even caught the notice of the Inyo Register, and the SPS was contacted for their input. Several SPS members contributed to the story, which can be accessed here: http://www.inyoregister.com/node/1655

A week-long peak-bagging trip to the Big Arroyo this past September afforded the opportunity for a group of us to place a new canister and book on the summit of Black Kaweah. Corrine Livingston, who now spends part of the year in Azerbaijan, helped with this effort and also placed a photo on the summit of her beloved dog, Kaweah, who recently passed way (see photo above).

Peak climbing stories naturally dominate conversations on Sierra trips, and this summer an idea for a new SPS emblem was born that we would like to propose to the membership. The Sierra Peaks Explorers Emblem would require the climbing of 50 named Sierra peaks that are not on the SPS list. This idea has been received with enthusiasm by the SPS Committee and by long-time climbers such as Doug Mantle and Tina Bowman, who agree that there are numerous fine

Banquet News

“The approach is everything.”

A quote from our guest speaker for the 2012 SPS banquet, Bob Burd

Bob Burd, known for organizing the extreme Sierra Challenge each year, and for finishing the Sierra Peaks list by summing every peak as a day hike from the trailhead.

He has also been known to work on other lists, including DPS, HPS, and California county high points. He is a moderator for summitpost.com and has his own web site, www.snwburd.com.

He will present an entertaining mix of peak experiences, anecdotes and extreme adventures, with photos of the many trips, including many friends with whom he has shared these unequalled hikes and ascents.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 pm. Members present were Kathy Rich, Eric Scheidemantle, Henry Arnebold and Alexander Smirnoff.

The minutes of the previous meeting, held on June 28th, 2011, were approved via email.

1. Chair’s Report - Kathy reported that:
- The Proud Bird has been reserved for Sunday, January 29th for the 2012 banquet. The Proud Bird will be more expensive than the previous venue so the DPS has been contacted about how they make the economics work. There was discussion about raising the fee for the banquet but we decided against it. Alternative potential speakers were discussed since Don Bowie has not responded. It was decided to ask Bob Burd (who subsequently accepted the invitation). A discussion ensued about the possibility of making Bob Burd an honorary SPS member in the future; however, this would require a Bylaws change.
- The Committee made suggestions about fund-raisers for the banquet such as: REI donating items for auction, regular members donating an item to sell, Eric selling some Sierra artwork, making a book of historic registers and possibly selling Karen Leonard’s book about the history of Angeles Chapter hiking.

2. Treasurer’s Report - Henry Arnebold presented the 3rd quarter report.
   Henry also completed the report requested by Angeles Chapter on entity reserves. The savings account has $5009.05 and the checking account $4352.76. The Echo brought in $105. We spent $1107.80 on printing, postage and $500 for the banquet deposit. Henry mentioned that he plans to step down as Treasurer and suggested that the new treasurer set up a new bank account with a bank that doesn’t charge fees (such as Wells Fargo).

4. Outings Report – Only a handful of trips have been submitted for the main schedule. This is one of the lowest number submitted in recent history; however, with quick turn-around now possible, there is less incentive to get published in the main schedule.

5. Mountain Records Report – A new canister and book was placed on Black Kaweah in September and a new book on Big Kaweah to replace the missing registers.

6. Archivist Report - Dan has updated the list finisher list. We have four new list finishers from August to September, 2011: Louise Wholey, Chris Libby, Greg Gerlach and John Hooper( #70-73). Dan reported that he is on the organizing committee to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the RCS (which began in Fall, 1932).

7. New Business
- The Committee was enthusiastic about the idea of an Explorer’s Emblem which is to climb 50 named Sierra peaks that are not on the SPS list. A motion to put this to a vote by the membership for a Bylaws change on the December ballot was approved.
- Ideas for an award for SPS List Finishers (besides the pin) were discussed. One idea was a plaque; another was a paper-weight like item such as a crystal mountain on a base with an engraving.
- The Committee was enthusiastic about the idea of SPS bandanas with different designs and colors such as the SPS list or a map of the regions (oversize ones too).
- Kathy passed on Chris Libby’s suggestion that we try to work with the land owners around Pilot Knob (S) to gain permission to climb it via the normal route and therefore could be put back on the list.
- The Committee approved moving forward with a link on the SPS website to prior trip listings so that leaders can see what has been led, when it’s been led and make it easier for leaders to lead the same trip.
- The Committee decided to request nominees for the 2012 Management Committee to provide a short paragraph describing themselves on the ballot form (much like what other sections do).
- We have 2 new members: Gary Hughes and Matt Kelliher.

8. Old Business
- We are waiting on the SPS list in Excel format to be posted to the website.
Please consider a proposal for a new Sierra Peaks Explorers Emblem which can be obtained by climbing fifty (50) Sierra peaks named on a USGS 7.5min map that are not on the SPS list, and be an SPS member. Proposal included on the ballot.

Please note: Henry Arnebold will be stepping down as Treasurer, and Kathy Rich will be stepping down as Chair (although she will continue on the Committee if elected), so we need to vote in some new members onto the Committee!

The new candidates and their bios are as follows:

Matt Hengst - I live in Orange County CA, work in Boise ID, and spend a whole lot of time rushing back and forth in order to climb mountains every weekend. In addition to being an M leader with a very active trip schedule I’m the group leader for Kaweah Group in Orange County WTC, help out with Advanced Mountaineering Program, and I’m active with the SCMA Rock Climbing Safety Course.

Lisa Miyake - I graduated from UCLA in 2006, and spent the following year in Japan on a Fulbright Fellowship. Being a researcher allowed for a flexible schedule; this gave me an opportunity to hike Mt. Fuji while I was there. I had never really hiked before, but felt compelled to summit the tallest peak in the country before I left. This was pretty rough for someone 40 pounds overweight with no experience, but somehow I made it through. The hiking bug didn’t hit me right away, though. It took a few years and several lost pounds, but in 2010 I was a student in the Wilderness Travel Course (WTC) and the rest – as they say – is history. I started hiking every weekend. I took a variety of courses to develop my skills, because I’m all about safely enjoying the outdoors. I learned more about rock climbing, snow travel, avalanches, and became an Associate Member of the Southern California Mountaineering Association (SCMA). I came back as a WTC Long Beach/South Bay instructor in 2011, and look forward to continuing to volunteer in that capacity in future years. I am currently an O2 leader, have passed all the M checkoffs, and will be going for the rating soon so I can better assist my group. This past spring and summer, I was out in the Sierra almost every weekend attempting or summiting peaks on the SPS list. I may be relatively new to hiking and mountaineering, but I’m out there – enjoying all that the outdoors has to offer. I love the Sierra Club because of its outings, and I hope to have an opportunity to share that passion as part of the SPS Committee. Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

Regge Bulman - I am an M-rated leader in the Sierra Club and a member of the SPS Section. I have been an instructor in the Sierra Club’s Wilderness Travel Course for four years and am currently the West LA area representative on the WTC management committee. I am a member and supporter of the AAC and Access Fund. I am also an associate member of the American Mountain Guide Association (AMGA) and am in the process of getting my Single Pitch Instructor certification. I look forward to getting more involved the SPS section and would be happy to serve as its treasurer. On top of everything, my wife Monica (also an SPS member) is a CPA and will make sure I don’t screw anything up.
SPS’s own Tom Bowman Wins 2011 Green Good Design Award

Learn more about the Bowman Design Group at www.bowmandesigngroup.com

Taken from “Exhibitor Online”

7/27/2011 - Tom Bowman, president of Bowman Design Group and Bowman Global Change, has been awarded a 2011 Green Good Design™ Award, the sole winner in the individual category which recognizes people “that have forwarded exceptional thinking and inspired greater progress toward a more sustainable universe.”

The international award, conferred jointly by the Chicago Athenaeum Museum of Architecture and Design and The European Centre for Architecture Art Design and Urban Studies, was launched in 2008 as an offshoot of the 60-year old Good Design™ Awards program, the largest and oldest design awards in the world.

Bowman’s work as an acclaimed environmental exhibition designer, an award-winning expert in green business planning, and a visionary green pioneer in the tradeshow industry led to the award. A professional jury of international sustainability experts singled out Bowman as the individual who best met the criteria as a “leader, pioneer and innovator in green design.” Judges selected an additional 122 winners in the sustainability award categories: city, corporation, product, urban planning, architecture, and research/technology.

Among his notable achievements, Bowman slashed his firm’s carbon emissions by 65% in just two years to win a 2009 CoolCalifornia Small Business of the Year Award and a 2009 Tradeshow Week Green Innovation Award; won Event Design Awards in 2007, 2008, and 2010 for his leadership on the Birch Aquarium Feeling the Heat exhibition, the Aquarium of the Pacific Ocean on the Edge exhibition, and the Southern California Edison Smart Energy Experience™ exhibition, respectively; and is the eponym behind the Trade Show Exhibitors Association’s Tom Bowman Green Award created “in honor of his contributions to saving the planet and significantly impacting and leading the industry in ways that positively affect the environment.”

REGARDING E-MAIL DISTRIBUTION OF THE ECHO

Please contact this email address (newsletter@sierrapeaks.org) for any issues with hard-copy or email version distribution.
Representing the Club’s Mountaineering Committee, I’m delighted and honored to present the Francis Farquhar Mountaineering Award to Royal Robbins. Farquhar, a former Club president and long-time board member, was instrumental in making the Sierra Club Bulletin a leading mountaineering journal through the mid-20th century.

Starting in the latter ‘50s, the Bulletin hosted numerous articles on Royal Robbins’ climbing exploits - especially in Yosemite Valley. Royal had joined the Sierra Club in 1950, as a 15-year-old youth, so that he could climb with the Club’s LA Rock Climbing Section.

54 years ago, in 1957, with two others he made the first ascent of the iconic sheer face of Half Dome - and he subsequently pioneered four more routes. He has also climbed it with his lovely wife, Liz - with us here tonight. Royal also made the first solo ascent of El Capitan. He is the author of two seminal books in the early ‘70s: Basic Rockcraft and Advanced Rockcraft, which emphasized free-climbing skills and a clean-climbing ethic - avoiding the damaging use of pitons.

Royal - thank you so much for your climbing achievements which have brought renown to the Sierra Club, and for your key contributions to our craft.
The U.S. Senate has unanimously passed the Mt. Andrea Lawrence Designation Act of 2011, my bill to name a mountain peak in Mono County “Mt. Andrea Lawrence” in honor and memory of this conservationist, three-time Olympian, and former member of the Mono County Board of Supervisors who passed away in 2009.

The measure now goes to the House of Representatives, where Congressman Howard P. “Buck” McKeon (R-Santa Clarita) has introduced an identical bill.

Andrea Mead Lawrence was a three-time Olympian who remains the only American double Olympic gold medalist in alpine skiing. She was inducted into the U.S. National Ski Hall of Fame in 1958 at the age of 25, and in 2002, sports writer and documentary filmmaker Bud Greenspan called her “the greatest Winter Olympian of all time.”

Peak 12,240, currently identified only by its elevation, is located in Mono County near the Tuolumne County border. It is on the border of the Ansel Adams Wilderness, just east of Yosemite National Park. The John Muir trail passes close to the peak.

Andrea Lawrence was an Olympic champion who dedicated her life to protecting the treasures of the Eastern Sierra. She served for 16 years on the Mono County Board of Supervisors as well as on the Great Basin Air Pollution Control District and in 2003 founded the Andrea Lawrence Institute for Mountains and Rivers to promote environmental protection and economic vitality in the region.

“IT IS MY HOPE THAT THE INSTITUTE FOR MOUNTAINS AND RIVERS WILL SERVE AS THE INSTITUTIONAL BASIS FOR INTEGRATING ECONOMIC VITALITY AND ECOCLOGICAL INTEGRITY WITHIN THE EASTERN SIERRA.”-ANDREA MEAD LAWRENCE

San Joaquin Mtn
4x List Finish Celebration
October 1, 2011

by Daryn Dodge

For the first time in many years, four SPS members finished the list in the same year: Chris Libby, Louise Wholey, Greg Gerlach and John Hooper. None of the participants finished on a scheduled SPS trip, so an official SPS dayhike up San Joaquin Mtn was quickly put together by Kathy Rich and me on October 1st to celebrate the accomplishment of all four finishers. We were delighted to have all four present on this trip. We were also honored to have Doug Mantle, a 7-time list finisher and a good friend of Chris Libby’s, join us for the climb. Due to less than ideal weather conditions, Kathy and I elected to drive everyone out from Minaret summit to the end of the 4WD road near Deadman Pass. This shortened the hike to just under 6 miles round trip. The hike out was really windy at times and decidedly chilly. But the clouds stayed away and a nice use trail made for easy hiking. Participants included: Kathy Rich (leader), Daryn Dodge (leader), Chris Libby, Louise Wholey, John Hooper, Greg Gerlach, Doug Mantle, Ron Hudson, Bob Suzuki, Scott Sullivan, Elena Sherman, Steve Eckert and Stella with kids Gabe and Vivian, Bob Wyka, Peter Christian, Ted Lenzie, Tom Kearns, Jim Wholey, Stephanie Glyden, Eddie Sudol, Sandra Hao, Andrew Wirkus, Daryl Hooper, Jenna Hooper, Nolan Bobroff, and Tammy Hooper with Ancho the dog.

Following the climb, John and Tammy Hooper hosted a wonderful potluck party at their home in Paradise (between Mammoth Lakes and Bishop). Tammy served up delicious barbecued hamburgers and hot dogs and no one went home hungry.

Chris Libby was the first of the four to finish this year, climbing his last SPS peak solo (Pilot Knob (S) on July 15th. This was before Pilot Knob (S) was officially suspended from the list due to issues of denial of access to the trailhead over private property.

Chris actually had 14 peaks left to climb at the beginning of the year to finish the list. Luckily, all had relatively short and easy approaches. That did not mean it was easy! Because of record snow levels, nearly all required slogging through snow or significant river crossings. Chris climbed his penultimate peak, English Mtn, in early July leaving Pilot Knob (S) to finish the list.

After scouting various routes up Pilot Knob, Chris decided to start at the public bridge over the river near Onyx. This route leads through tribal land. There were no specific signs, locked gates, or people in attendance, but he did not feel comfortable leaving a car there unattended, so he parked at a Game Refuge parking lot 3/4 mile east on Highway 158. There was someone staying in a camper at the bridge with a generator going, and on the way back, there were a few people milling about. But they either did not see him or did not seem to care he was there. He followed the standard route on the cow trail and up the gully to the ridge, then right to the peak. The trail was largely ducked with some weaving involved to avoid brush and downed trees.

Chris feels the peak is definitely worthy of the list and encourages SPS to try and work out an access agreement with the tribe because such issues have been worked out before for state highpointers.

Louise was the next to finish on a 2-day trip to Iron Mtn. This trip was scheduled as a Sierra Club trip with the Peak Climbing Section (PCS) of the Loma Prieta Chapter in the San Francisco Bay Area. Louise also had quite a dramatic ending leading up to her last peak. With 2 weeks left before her already-scheduled PCS list finish trip on Iron Mtn on August 13, she still needed three peaks. None of them were easy, including Table Mtn, Pickett Guard Pk, and Deerhorn Mtn. Corrine Livingston and I joined Louise for a late July-early August trip for Table and Pickett Guard. A horrendous storm drove us off Table just as we found the class 3 ramp that leads to the summit plateau. So we then tried for Pickett Guard, which fought us the whole way with more stormy weather, dense fog, nearly impossible river crossings, hordes of mosquitos, and a trail up Kern-Kaweah canyon that had been turned into a massive swamp due to all the snow melt. But climb Pickett Guard we did! With no time left and continuing bad weather we had to forego another attempt on Table Mtn on our way out. Now with less than a week before her scheduled Iron Mtn finish, she joined some climbing friends for the climb up Deerhorn, which went smoothly. She then hiked south over to Forester Pass to meet a guide she managed to hire on short notice only a few days before. Together they made quick work getting up Table Mtn, managing to work around most of the steep snow that blocked much of the class 3 route on the south face. Thus, she was able to finish on Iron Mtn a few days later on her 70th birthday as planned, and in the process became List Finisher #70. Chris graciously offered to give Louise list finish number 70 and take #71 instead, although he finished earlier in the year.

John Hooper has been climbing Sierra peaks since the 1960s. But it wasn’t until almost 10 years ago that a climbing friend showed him a peak list called the Sierra Peaks List. John was driven from that moment on to finish the list! I was lucky enough to join John on several of the more challenging peaks over the last few years, including Palisade Crest, Devil’s Crag #1, and Disappointment Peak. He is an excellent climber. In fact, Disappointment Peak was his penultimate peak which we climbed about a month before he finished on Mt. Gardiner. Even though I had done the route on Disappointment only 3 years earlier, it was John that figured out the correct route after I had pretty much given up finding it! This showed me how good a climber John really is (or maybe it shows how bad a route finder I am). For his last peak, Mt. Gardiner, John had planned to climb it with his son sometime by the end of September.

In early September I joined Greg Gerlach and several others for his list finish on Mt. Gardiner, which John had also saved for last. Greg had climbed many of the listed Sierra peaks in the 1980s and 1990s, but has been climbing only few per year since then. He did not feel the urge to finish right away as many of us do. In 2010 he climbed his penultimate peak, Disappointment Peak, with plans to climb his last peak the following year. Our approach for Gardiner was from the Sixty Lakes Basin to the north. As we made our way up the rock and scree about 1000 feet below the summit ridge, we heard a yell from the above. It was John! Turns out he could not coordinate a trip to the peak with his son later in September, so he decided to surprise us by climbing up the south side of the peak the same day we were climbing it from the north. John got to the summit about 30 minutes before us, so we had a short celebration about halfway across the class 4 knife edge near the summit.

Look for more list finishers coming up in the next couple of years, including Shane Smith, Lisa Barboza and Bob Wyka. And maybe John Cheslick if he ever develops an interest in climbing Devil’s Crag!
We had a strong group of 8 for our Soldier Lake (10,400’) mule pack trip. Our primary sponsor was the Mule Pack Section, and we co-sponsored with the Sierra Peaks Section and Wilderness Travel Course. All entities were represented by 3 or more participants, many of us being members of two or all three of these groups.

Lower Soldier Lake is located southwest of Mt Langley, only about 2 miles northwest of New Army Pass. To get there, we left the Cottonwood Pack Station at Horseshoe Meadow and hiked on good trail in the rain over Cottonwood Pass, joined the PCT for a time, then left on another trail heading north to the lake. It was our good fortune that the heavy rains over several days kept the dust down, cleared the air, and then stopped when we reached our camp. We had no more rain the rest of the week. Rock Creek was running high from the rain and we had to be extra cautious during crossings early in the week. Stats from trailhead to camp: 11mi, 1850’ gain.

During the week, we took advantage of our location to bag several peaks in the area. First, we climbed Joe Devel Peak (13,327’), going southwest from Soldier Lake, crossing Rock Creek, and then beginning our ascent at about 10,400’ still heading southwest to avoid some cliffs and then making a right turn to head toward the summit ridge, then followed the ridge to the summit. On the way back, we started south, then turned east to cross over into a steep class 2 gully at about 11,400’ and down to a meadow. After an exciting log crossing, we climbed the ridge over to Soldier Lake. Stats for the day: 7mi, 3550’.

All peaks were climbed via class 2 routes which sometimes required miles of extra hiking to approach from the direction that allowed for this. The longest day was to Mt Chamberlin, a 20 mile round trip with 5000’ of gain. From camp we descended southwest and west along Rock Creek until joining the PCT and continuing to a low point of 9600’. The PCT turned north and we followed it to the saddle between Mt Guyot and Mt Chamberlin. We turned northeast and climbed to Mt Chamberlin, then retraced our steps. There was a fire burning in the Golden Trout Wilderness that created a lot of smoke in our area, especially in the afternoons. We elected not to add Mt Guyot to our day partly because the smoke was so thick that the views were extremely hazy. We will return another time as the vistas are reported to be superb.

Mt Newcomb (13,422’) was another long day. It began with a descent from Soldier Lake down the Rock Creek trail (again!) to a point just below the Rock Creek Ranger Station. Here, we left the trail, headed north, and climbed up the Perrin Creek drainage. We mostly followed the creek, doing some time-consuming bushwhacking and boulder-hopping along the way. Once above timberline, the going was much easier and also quite beautiful, as the creek meanders through lovely alpine meadows. Eventually, we reached the high lakes which form the headwaters of Perrin Creek. From there, we ascended steep, loose talus to the summit mesa, and then enjoyed easy hiking on the mesa up to the summit. Stats 16mi, 5000’.

Mt Pickering (13,474’) was a shorter climb at “only” 8.5mi and 3500’. We climbed over the ridge from Soldier Lake down to the Rock Creek marsh, then up some slabs to Erin Lake (11,647’), a beautiful destination in itself. We climbed northeast up to the plateau and followed it northwest to the summit. The views were spectacular of the “backside” of Mt Whitney and Mt Langley, of Newcomb, Chamberlin, and Joe Devel, places we had just been to but from different directions. There are really no good words to describe the glory of it all!

The Major General (12,400’) stands guard 2000’ over Soldier Lake. After looking at it all week, some felt the desire to climb it for the opposite view. We followed a faint use trail toward Upper Soldier Lake crossing the outlet stream at about 11,200’, then over to the northwest side of the southwest ridge and up ledges to the sandy ridge top. Although just a bump on the ridge, at 12,400’ it offers fine views and is well worth the effort. Stats: 3mi, 2000’.

Everyone climbed something, no one climbed all. We also had rest days to Erin Lake, Sky Blue Lake, and Upper Soldier Lake, the latter two enticing some for a quick swim.

Soldier Lake is marshy and not a swimming lake, though beautiful, with the Major General looking down from above. Mosquitoes were present but bites were mostly prevented by covering up. We did not expect the foot traffic that occurred at our camp, mostly from fishermen and other backpackers. It was helpful that we usually had someone in camp to talk to folks passing through and to keep an eye on things. We happened to be at a very popular location on the peninsula that points north into the lake. This site accommodated our group of 8 well, but there were other nice sites around the lake, particularly on the east side.

We set up our Happy Hour area with a tarp overhead, four bear boxes (in the shade of the tarp), a 2 ¼ x 4 ft table, two stoves, kitchenware, a lantern, and our chairs. Our dinner meals were planned in advance by Tonyce Bates who assigned each of us to bring certain items and oversaw meal preparation. Everyone helped in preparation and clean-up. We consumed almost all of the food, but much of the wine was carted back to the trailhead. Unlike many other mule pack trips, with this one we often did not arrive back in camp after the day’s adventures until dusk. Our Happy Hours were more condensed, although those taking a short day or rest day could be seen enjoying this time sooner. We enjoyed getting to know each other. Five participants were new to mule packing and all are expected to return on future trips!

Half of the group elected to return to the trailhead the way we came, and the other half detoured via New Army Pass and Cirque Peak (12,900’) (an additional 2 miles and 2500’) before joining back together at Cottonwood Pass for the final hike out. It was nice to have this as an option.

Our thanks go to participants Phil and Tonyce Bates, Linda Emerson, Tim McCoy, Annemarie Mikolaitis, and Don Raether. Everyone’s personality had a mark on our trip. We had a great time at our final celebration telling our (funny) observations of each other and receiving our Mule Pack patches.
Western Sierra Sojourn

Sept. 9-11, 2011

With showers on each of the three days, this was a trip that could have become troublesome, but thankfully it wasn’t. And all 27 participants seemed happy to spend some leisurely late-summer time in the Bass Lake area of Sierra National Forest. The USFS Lupine Campground, located on the west side of the lake, served as base for the outing, and early arrivals Friday afternoon encountered only a brief but light shower. A few sprinkles fell that evening during the promised happy hour, but the group did without a campfire in view of gusty winds and warm temperatures.

Asher Waxman substituted for the originally announced leader, Mary McMannes, who needed to be in Ohio to arrange care for elderly parents, one of whom was injured in a fall at home there a few days before the trip. The author served as the trip assistant and sweep, a task that’s quite easy when a leisurely pace is guaranteed.

Clear skies prevailed Saturday morning, and 23 climbers set out for Fresno Dome (7457’), a drive of some 25 miles on scenic forest roads. Four San Diegans who needed extra time to climb a second peak departed early so they could do both peaks.
During the drive, the main group stopped briefly at an overlook from which the dome’s imposing south face predominates. Then, the drive continued on to the north side of the dome, from which a mile-long trail passed through a meadow and forest setting before climbing up the granite of the dome. Nineteen persons in the main party started, and all but one reached the top.

Lunch was enjoyed back at the cars. Then, the group drove back toward Bass Lake but turned off on a spur road for an afternoon hike through the giant sequoias in the Nelder Grove Historic Area. Everyone in the group hiked the mile-long Shadows of the Giants loop, situated in a gentle ravine with a brook running down the middle. Ten participants opted independently to explore another nearby trail that yielded the Bull Buck Tree, a very tall giant but one smaller in circumference than others in the grove.

Showers fell late Saturday afternoon at camp but ended before another extended happy hour, this time with a campfire and mild temperatures. A bottle of wine was the prize in a competition for the most ancient climb of an SPS-listed peak. Ret Moore thought at first he was the winner with a 1940 climb of Half Dome, but Gordon MacLeod bested his fellow list finisher by recalling a 1937 ascent of that famed Yosemite landmark. None of the other list finisher present—including Barbara Lilley, Rich Gnagy, Elton Fletcher, Vicky Hoover and the author—came close. Nor did any of the three SPS founding members on hand: Lilley, Frank Bressel and Roger Gaefcke. Nor did others with vintage SPS connections: Patricia Fletcher, Nancy Keating, Mary Sue Miller and Ralph Wright plus Joanna Bressel, whose Sierra Club affiliation started before the SPS was founded in 1955.

Elton Fletcher caused the group to think even more into history by presenting a rare Sierra Club cup that he, Elton, had purchased in 1963 at a thrift store and carried with him on all of the peaks that were part of his list finish. The cup’s bottom bears an imprint, Sierra Club of California, rather than just Sierra Club, indicating the cup was manufactured in the early 20th century. With the cup came correspondence from Will Colby, the first chairman of the Sierra Club’s Outings Committee, indicating this type of cup originated before 1923.
On Sunday, several members opted to spend more time in camp, while 18 stalwarts packed up and drove to the far side of Goat Mtn. to start the final phase of the scheduled trip: a four-mile round trip with 1,040 feet of gain to the high point of the mountain (4967’). The route starts on a gated forest road that leads to a lookout tower on the far end of the ridge. Once reaching the ridge, a spur turns in the opposite direction to the high point. Two persons stopped short of the saddle while conditions were dry, but two others turned back on the summit ridge when shower activity was on the increase. All the others kept moving and found reasonably dry conditions on the summit. Of those on top, three San Diegans—Richard Carey, Gail Hanna and Shelley Rogers—signed out and set off for the unstaffed lookout that, while offering a superior viewpoint, is lower in elevation.

Others on the trip were Mark Adrian (the fourth San Diegan), Murray Aronson, Arlene Block, Dick Drosendahl, Eugenia Hathaway, Bill Karasick, Nancy Parker, Joyce Sagan and Bruce Trotter, all but one of whom have been on previous trips in this series. The series is promoted for “old-timers” and newcomers. It features involvement of the Canyon Explorers Club and tends to focus on areas of the Sierra that SPSers have overlooked in the quest for SPS-listed peaks. All on the trip took proper note that Sunday was the 10th anniversary of the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center, the Pentagon and what might have been the nation’s Capitol had not doomed passengers helped send another plane into open ground in Pennsylvania.
The Sierra Sampler List

Listed below, by region, are the 100 peaks that comprise the Sierra Sampler. While no mountain in the Sierra can be climbed without time, effort, and risk, these peaks represent a sub-set of the full SPS List that are relatively easy to get to, pose less danger than others on the List, are fun to climb and/or hold other qualities, and are drawn from the main areas of the range. The Sampler, which has been approved by the SPS Management Committee, thus provides a good introduction to the Sierra for climbers of varying degrees of experience and ability. Enjoy! Darrick Danta
