10th Annual Campaign

Defenders of Tennessee

The Sierra Club’s Defenders of Tennessee campaign began 10 years ago as a means of funding our legislative program. Because the Sierra Club is a volunteer organization with no paid staff in Tennessee, we would not have a strong voice in the state legislature without this program. Our advocacy and lobbying program consists of three vital activities: phone calls and letters from our members to our lawmakers; volunteer lobbying; and the work of our professional lobbyist, Mike Murphy. Mike is a veteran of the Tennessee House of Representatives and a longtime conservation activist. As such, Mike is uniquely qualified because of his contacts within the legislature and his knowledge of the issues.

We have a large number of faithful contributors, for whom we are very grateful and without whom we could not continue. Through normal attrition, however, we have lost some of our longtime supporters. We ask you to become a Defender so that we can continue with this critical work.

As we celebrate this 10th anniversary, we are pleased to report that during the 2005 legislative session, we enjoyed some significant environmental victories. A few of these victories, which we share with some other organizations, include passage of bills that:

* Provided for a citizen appeal process for inter-basin water transfer (such as sending Tennessee River waters to Atlanta);
* Provided for a citizen appeal process when there are violations of a discharge permit issued by the Department of Environment and Conservation;
* Established the Cumberland Plateau Conservation Foundation;
* Allow landowners to more easily set up a conservation easement.

Some very important issues that may require our attention next year include:

* A bill that would allow TDEC to issue a stop work order when mining operations violate water quality standards;
* A bill requiring an impact study prior to clearcutting timber;
* A bill regulating aerial pesticide spraying;
* A bill providing a tax exemption for purchase of hybrid vehicles and other cars meeting nonpolluting standards;
* A bill to add environmental members to environmental protections boards;
* An antilitter bill through a beverage container deposit program;
* A bill promoting waterway beautification by safeguarding vegetation in streamside management zones; and
* A bill establishing a registration and permit system for chip mill facilities.

Not all of these bills will come up, but you can depend on Mike Murphy to be there to fight for what is right for the environment, and for what is ultimately right for the physical and economic health and well-being of ourselves and our families. He and his colleagues will work hard to achieve these goals.

Appalachian Children to Lose Piece of Heritage

by Denise Schmoyer
Sierra Club Member

On November 18 the YMCA of East Tennessee unexpectedly announced the closing of Camp Montvale, its residence camp outside Maryville. Camp Montvale has been in operation for 58 years and for many area children was the site of their first camp-out, first backpacking trip -- first true encounter with nature. The camp sits on 400 acres less than two miles from the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. Much of the land adjacent to and surrounding the camp is state-owned and as a result the area makes up a large contiguous undeveloped zone very close to the park. Black bears are active on the property as well as a host of Appalachian flora and fauna.

The camp is built on the site of the old Montvale Springs Resort, Tennessee’s first spa, which opened in 1830. With the alleged healing effects of Montvale Spring and the area’s natural beauty the resort gained world class recognition and was long-lived despite numerous setbacks. The famous Seven Gables Hotel burned to the ground twice and was rebuilt before burning a third and final time in 1933. In 1947 the 394 acres comprising the Montvale Springs Resort were sold by the Pflanze family to the YMCA of East Tennessee. Building the camp was truly a community effort. Local clubs donated funds to build the dining hall and local businesses gave their products at half price and offered labor at a minimal cost. The first session of camp was held in the summer of 1948. From the beginning, Montvale sought to provide a camping experience for all children, regardless of income. Now that is history.

The YMCA closed Camp Montvale claiming that it has become financially untenable. Their current statement is that the camp is not for sale but could be at some point in the future. In fact, the threat of development at Montvale remains very real. Coincidently, on November 21 the YMCA announced plans to build a multimillion-dollar, 40,000 square foot exercise facility in Knoxville’s Farragut community. Fundraising for that new facility is to begin immediately.

It will be a sad loss if Camp Montvale is sold to developers. If you have any suggestions or would like to join the efforts to save Camp Montvale, please visit www.savecampmontvale.org.

Ten Essentials for Hiking

Sierra Club Outings offer a variety of wilderness and near-wilderness experiences. It is important to realize that while all trips are guided by a leader, it is ultimately the responsibility of the individual to operate in a safe manner. To this end, the following is a list of essential items, which should be modified according to the particular type of outing.

1. Adequate map
2. First aid kit
3. Compass
4. Rain gear
5. Extra clothing (it is a good idea to always have a wool hat)
6. Matches
7. Knife
8. Flashlight
9. Extra food, water
10. The tenth essential. You decide what is the most important thing to bring!

All participants in Sierra Club outings are required to sign a standard liability waiver. If you would like to read a copy of the waiver before you participate, please refer to: http://www.sierraclub.org/outings/chapter/forms/SignInWaiver.PDF, or call 415-977-5630, for a printed version.

Transportation to the outing including carpooling, ride sharing or anything similar, is strictly a private arrangement among the participants. Participants assume the risks associated with this travel.

Wolf River Harbor Clean Up

On an absolute perfect day, people worked to clean up along the shoreline of Wolf River Harbor. Many thanks to Dr. Victoria Johnson along with members of the Chickasaw Group, and other volunteers collected 79 bags of litter from a section of shoreline at Wolf River Harbor. Part of Harbor Town is in the background.

Message In the Bottle Photo Contest

http://www.scenictennessee.org/contest.html

Halloween House Calls

A group of Sierra Club and Tennessee Trails Association members recently hiked part of the Pinson Mounds State Archeological Site near Jackson, Tennessee, where native-Americans of the Middle Woodland period established the largest mound complex in North America. At least 15 earthen mounds, a geometric enclosure, habitation areas and related earthworks remain, covering almost 1,200 acres of the historic site that dates from 1-500 A.D. The hikers met at the Visitors Center, which is a modern two-story museum with an archeological laboratory in the basement that can be seen from the first story by looking down through observation windows. The group climbed “Saul’s Mound,” at 72 feet, the tallest of the mound structures, and then hiked along the boardwalk down to the Forked Deer River and back.

Several of the waste-handling professionals from Clean Harbors, Inc. rapidly filled a third 250-gallon container with used motor oil. The line of cars on the left side of the photo is representative of how busy the day was.

Government, and the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation for their organizing Chair, is lastly, but surely not least, thanks to the waste-handling professionals at Clean Harbors, Inc. The amount collected was over 204,000 pounds of waste, of which about 750 gallons (about 6,000 pounds) was used motor oil. A number of cans of paint that were collected fairly boggled the mind and worked out to 97,000 pounds of the total. According to the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation (TDEC), this event had the largest participation and generated the largest volume of any collection event in Tennessee history. While mobile events like this are good, it will be great when Memphis - Shelby County gets a permanent household waste collection facility similar to what exists in Nashville, Knoxville, and Chattanooga.

Household Hazardous Waste Collection Event in Memphis / “X” Marks the Spot

On a very windy, but warm and dry day, Scott Dye - National Water Sentinels Director joined Charlie Rond - Chickasaw Group Chair and James Baker - Conservation Chair to volunteer to help at this event. A special thanks go to the over 2,000 citizens of Memphis and Shelby County that brought in their discards so that they could be properly disposed. It was quite a sight to see a county of almost a million disgorge its accumulated tons of household toxins by the carload after carload. A big thank you also goes to the volunteers from the Memphis Area Master Gardeners program. Thanks also go to the City of Memphis Public Works Division, Shelby County

Thank you also goes to the volunteers from the Memphis Riverfront to its full potential as a green space for public enjoyment, preserving its historic, natural and aesthetic character. On the web, see:

Holiday Party

The Chickasaw Group Holiday Party drew about 65 members and friends out on a cold and windy Saturday night. Inside, the atmosphere was warm and inviting. A highlight of the evening was the traditional awards ceremony. This year’s winners were:
* Unsung Hero – Julie Ray. As the owner of Café Francisco, Julie has, since 2003, provided free snacks and drinks to those hard working (and hungry) volunteers that have given their time of help keep Wolf River Harbor clean.

Winter time energy saving tips

by David Reister
Sierra Club

Wash only full loads of dishes and clothes.

Look for the ENERGY STAR label on home appliances and products. ENERGY STAR products meet strict efficiency guidelines set by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Department of Energy.

DRIVING TIPS

Idling gets you 0 miles per gallon. The best way to warm up a vehicle is to drive it. No more than 30 seconds of idling on winter days is needed. Anything more simply wastes fuel and increases emissions.

Aggressive driving (speeding, rapid acceleration, and hard braking) wastes gas. It can lower your highway gas mileage 33% and city mileage 5%.

Avoid high speeds. Each 5 mph you drive over 60 mph is like paying $0.10 more per gallon of gas.

When you use overdrive gearing, your car’s engine speed goes down. This saves gas and reduces wear.

Use air conditioning only when necessary.

Clear out your car; extra weight decreases gas mileage.

Reduce drag by placing items inside the car or trunk rather than on roof racks. A loaded roof rack can decrease your fuel economy by 5%.

Check into carpooling and public transit to cut mileage and car maintenance costs.
